LIFE IN THE SHADOWS OF A CORPORATE LAWYER: ALCOHOL RUINS PROMISING LEGAL CAREER

Booksurge Publishing, United States, 2009. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.The author is a semi-retired corporate and government lawyer living in Groton CT. He received his JD from Univ. of Chicago, and M.S. in Management from RPI, and a B.A. magna cum laude in political science from Emory Univ. where he was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. He was born in NYC during WWII to 2 South Georgians who fled the Depression to find jobs. His father had received an LL.B. from unaccredited Atlanta Law School and closed his practice in Lumpkin after only 4 years. The author's paternal grandfather deserted the family when his father was living alone with his mother who died when he was only 21. He became embittered because he could neither be admitted upon reciprocity or sit for the NYS bar exam without attending an accredited law school all over. His mother had a much more outgoing personality and came from a very loving family with 4 sisters and a brother, but she smothered the author with too much protectiveness after he caught polio at age 6. Miriam Jay received her B.A. from the Univ. of Georgia and an MAT from Columbia. Hence she home schooled the author until mid-way through the first grade. By the time he was in the 4th grade, he had an 8th grade reading level, and unbeknownst to him, his parents had twice turned down his school's request to skip him one grade. They felt, correctly, that he was socially maladjusted and would not cope with kids two years his elder. At age 11, the author's family moved to Tallahassee FL because his father had been fired for drunkenness, something of which he was unaware...
